

Our present choices determine our future.

It's not always easy for me to feel to what extent I can communicate with you my feelings, my impressions. Far from me the desire to convince or impose any truth. However today, something pushes me to write and dare to share with you this intuition.

The impulse comes from my heart, I doubt it could harm.

It has been almost 2 years now that we are living an extremely intense time. On the physical plane, it's a virus, a lot of fears, measures, prohibitions, more divisions...but on a more subtle plane, it is time to choose.

The choice of answering the call of the soul, or that of remaining in a world governed by power and competition, a world of dominated and dominant, where the ego overshadows far too much our hearts and souls.

Vibrationally, the earth is changing frequency.

We can fight it and hang on to the model we know by being obedient, wishing to return to what we think is 'normal', or we can make the choice to elevate ourselves into this new era, take the lift, and enter this new world.

But to do so, we have to accept that a cleansing has to happen, accept to declutter ourselves of what we no longer want personally, and of what doesn't serve the collective anymore. We must dare to live according to our deep values, bonded in our hearts.

If you have made the choice of a path of love, of light, of trust and peace, it is no time to give up.

On the contrary, keep your light, your discernment, the connection to your intuition and to your heart.

Let's stop for a bit, and ask ourselves:

In which world do we want to live?

What choice do we make today?

If the old world was to collapse...would we be so attached to it to the point of collapsing with it, or are we willing to trust and ascend?

I often talk to you about the journey through the chakras. Humanity too walks through them. Until now, mankind was mainly governed by ego and power, but today humanity is ready to mutate to the level of the heart.

Let's be ready for that too.

The earth is not waiting for us anymore, she rises...we might as well rise with her.

The more we are aware of what is happening, the more we have trust in our capacity to let go of the old and evolve, the smoother the journey will be.

I hope we will be many to answer the call of the soul.

If this message speaks to you, let it resonate inside.

PEACE
to all living beings
